Government Marketing Scheme

Marketing of seed grain on an extensive scale, and in accordance with a plan which will seek to encourage the production of pure seed in the province, will be undertaken by the provincial department of agriculture as a result of arrangements completed by officials of the department, and which have been given the official approval of Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture. The announcement of the new scheme was made by H. A. Craig, deputy minister, this week.

The new marketing plan involves not only the distribution of seed for production purposes as formerly, but contemplates also the establishment of a cleaning and grading plant at Edmonton, through which all seed grain will be marketed under the new plan, and the further provision for the advancement to the farmers, on consignments of seed-grain to the government plant, of 65 per cent. of the commercial elevator price, with a certificate covering the balance. The seed will be sold to the best possible advantage and the balance, after expenses are deducted, will be paid to the growers. It is not the desire, however, that exorbitant prices be paid for the seed, but that a reasonable premium be obtained.

It is anticipated that 100,000 bushels of seed grain of all varieties will be handled under the new scheme this year. The handling and marketing is to be under the supervision of the field crops branch of the provincial department of agriculture, over which W. J. Stephen, crops commissioner, presides.

Distribution of pure seed for production purposes will continue to be undertaken by the field husbandry branch of the University of Alberta, under Prof. Cutler, in co-operation with the field crops branch of the government. The department, however, undertakes to be responsible for the quality of seed supplied to these farmers, no matter from what source it may come.

The field crops branch of the department of agriculture will inspect the growing grain produced from the registered seed supplied. Any farmer, however, who can satisfy the crops commissioner that he is growing seed grain that can be registered, and can pass inspection of the commissioner, will have the opportunity of marketing his seed under the new government scheme.

The cleaning plant for the government is already being installed in Edmonton, in the building formerly occupied by the North-West Biscuit Co. in the east end of the city, which has recently been taken over by the department of agriculture, and which is served by suitable trackage. The cleaning plant to be installed will be one of the most modern, and an up-to-date device for unloading grain will also be a feature of the plant.

In the marketing of the seed grain the government will have regard first for the Alberta market, after which outside markets will be sought. As has been stated, the farmer will receive an advance on receipt of his seed grain of 65 per cent of the commercial elevator price, with a certificate for the balance.

At the coming seed fair, an opportunity is to be given for the formation of a provincial seed growers' organization, with the present Alberta crop improvement association as a nucleus.

Producers of seed in the province will be encouraged to patronize the new marketing plan, under the conditions stipulated. It is emphasized that the individuality of the growers' own seed will not be lost at any stage, but will be retained throughout the whole marketing scheme.

Government Exhibit

It has been decided that the Alberta Government exhibit now being prepared by the agricultural department will be sent in September to the Midland Empire fair at Billings, Montana, and to the state fair in Colorado at Pueblo. Uncertainty of the situation in connection with the present railway strike in the States has made necessary the cancelling of plans which had also been made to send the exhibit to fairs in South Dakota and Iowa. The fairs in Montana and Colorado are not held until the latter part of September. In placing the government exhibit at the fairs, emphasis is being laid on the attractions of the irrigation lands which the government is at present engaged in colonizing in Southern Alberta. The exhibit will contain samples of the products of these irrigated lands and a feature will also be a series of motion pictures recently taken on irrigated farms. The motion pictures to be shown will also include other features of Alberta agriculture and general development.

Successful prosecutions of merchants who have been evading the regulations with respect to sale of eggs unfit for consumption, have been conducted recently by the poultry branch of the provincial government. Prosecution was undertaken against the Milner Trading Co., of Vegreville, and after a lengthy hearing, during which much contradictory evidence was given by witnesses for the defense, a fine of $50 and costs, the maximum under the regulations, was imposed by Magistrate MacIntyre. Another charge was laid against Nick Keryluk, who keeps a store at Vegreville.

Selling Spoiled Eggs

Under the prairie fires ordinance, a fire district has been created in the province as follows: North and west of a line starting at the point where the North Saskatchewan river intersects the fourth meridian, thence upstream to Edmonton, thence south along the C.P.R. to Calgary and Macleod, thence south between ranges 25 and 26 to the International Boundary. Regulations controlling the starting of fires in this fire area have been issued, requiring permits to be obtained to start fires within the district. Circulars have been issued by the provincial fire guardian urging the public to observe these regulations.

Revenue from Theatres

Revenue from theatre tax in the province has been falling off this year, indicating a falling off in attendance. A total of 96 picture shows are licensed in the province this year, in comparison to 111 last year.

First samples of wheat being received at the dominion government elevator at Calgary are grading No. 1 hard and No. 1 Northern. Several carloads of wheat have already been marketed.

Unemployment

Prospects for less unemployment during the coming fall and winter are much brighter than for some time. With the settlement of the coal strike, which is expected to come about shortly, will come approximately 100 per cent. employment in the mines, which will take care of about 1500 extra men over and above the usual number employed, in view of the anticipated rush for coal to make up depleted stocks. A good deal of labor is being absorbed by the harvest fields this year. The commencement of the big refinery of the Imperial Oil Co., in Calgary, will also absorb a large number of men.

Macleod & District
War Memorial
Unveiling Ceremony

The Macleod and District War Memorial Unveiling ceremony will take place on Monday, September 4th, commencing at 3 p.m. The Macleod Great War Next-of-Kin Association and the Macleod G. W. V. A., who have had the arrangements in hand, have prepared a very appropriate programme for the occasion and without doubt a big course of Macleod and district's patriots will attend to do honor to our departed heroic war martyrs. Brigadier-General Stewart, of Lethbridge, will be present, and invitations have been extended to Mr. Coats and W. H. Shield, members respectively of the Federal and Provincial parliaments.

Program

1. "O Canada" ... School Children
2. Prayer ... Rev. J. Kennedy
3. Song, "In Flanders Fields" ... J. Ridley
4. Dedication ... Rev. Capt. Middleton
5. Unveiling ... Brig.-Gen. Stewart, D.S.O.

10. Address ... D. J. Grier
11. Address ... Rev. G. D. Armstrong
12. Benediction ... Rev. W. J. Merrick "God Save the King."

The Great War Veterans and Next-of-Kin Associations request the children of Grades 1 to 12 to assemble at the Public School at 2.30 p.m. on Monday, September 4th, so that they may march down from there to the unveiling ceremony of the War Memorial. We would like to see all the children attend.

The G. W. V. A. and Next of Kin Associations would like all War Veterans who can possibly come to attend, in uniform, the unveiling ceremony on September 4th next, meeting at the G.W.V.A. Hall at 2 p.m. sharp. Seats will be reserved on the north side of the memorial enclosure for the relatives of those whose names are on the monument, and for those relatives only.

BASIS SETTLEMENT ALTA.
COAL MINERS' STRIKE

Miners to return to work on the basis of a reduction of 15 per cent. in wages from the rate prevailing prior to March 31st last.

Should 75 per cent. of the soft coal miners in the United States central competitive field sign up to return to work at the old rates pending a probe of conditions of the mining industry in the United States by an impartial commission appointed by President Harding, the old rates in effect prior to March 31st will automatically go into effect here.

No retroactive pay clause.

C.P.R. EXCURSION RATES—

Montreal, Que., Aug. 23.—The Canadian Railways have decided to make excursion fares from Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba to all points in Eastern Canada during December and early January to afford an opportunity to the people in prairie provinces to visit eastern Canada.

222 PERISH:—Santiago, Chile, Aug. 29.—The Chilean steamer Itata, 2,200 tons, sank today off the Chilean coast, near Coquimbo. All the passengers, numbering 150, and the crew of 72 were lost.

The Duke de Stacpoole, head of a distinguished Irish family, writes in his "Irish and Other Memories": "An old story is told in connection with the national failing. 'Drink,' said a preacher, 'is the greatest curse of our country. It makes ye quarrel with yer family. It makes ye hate yer neighbors. It makes ye shoot at yer landlord. And it makes ye miss him.'"

TELEGRAPH
NEWS TOLD
IN BRIEF

FOREMOST BANK ROBBERY:—Lethbridge, Aug. 29.—Six masked motor bandits held up the Union Bank at Foremost, about 80 miles south-east of Lethbridge, on the C. P. R. Lethbridge-Weyburn line, between 1.30 and 3 o'clock Tuesday morning, bound and gagged two clerks sleeping in quarters over the bank, after having forced the junior clerk to open the outer door of the vault, and completely ransacked the vault and safety deposit boxes, getting $12,000 in cash and $70,000 in securities, mostly registered. They made their get-away by automobile, and are believed to have headed for the new oil fields region at Sunburst, on the Great Northern Railway in northern Montana. The yeggs blew the inner door of the safe. Police have spread a dragnet in an effort to intercept the hold-ups, but they had a good four hours start on the officers.

Police here believe the job was done by professionals. They entered the town, cut the telephone cables at the exchange, and the C.P.R. telegraph wires at the depot. Then they cut the wires on the ignition system of all the cars standing about on the main street.

Force Entrance to Bank

About 1.30 four of the men, masked, forced entrance into the bank, and going up to the sleeping quarters in which the two clerks were asleep, awakened them. McPhee, the teller, they bound and gagged. He was a new man in the bank, having arrived from Calgary only the day before, and the hold-up men seemingly knew he did not know the combination of the vault. The junior clerk, Reg. Jennings, they forced to accompany them down stairs and open the outer doors of the vault.

Roped to Their Beds

He was then taken back to his bed and both clerks were roped to the beds. The inner door of the safe was then blown and the vault thoroughly ransacked. Twelve thousand in currency was taken, and at least $70,000 in securities, mostly Victory Bonds. About three o'clock the yeggs made their get-away, traveling by motor.

Victims Free Themselves

Meantime, MmPhee succeeded in some manner in untying Jennings and the latter then freed McPhee. The youths hurried to the residence of Manager Guthrie, who aroused Provincial Police Constable Roe. Roe was unable to reach the outside world by wire, so he motored to Bow Island, 20 miles north on the Crow line of the C.P.R. From there he telephoned Inspector Bavin of the Lethbridge division A. P. P., who immediately notified all men on the division outposts, and the Montana police, spreading a dragnet for the escaping bandits. So far, however, no clue whatever of the direction the men took has been revealed, the bandits covering up their escape in a thoroughly professional manner.

MILLIONS FROM STAMP ACT:—

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The new stamp tax, combined with the sales tax, continues to demonstrate that it is a money-maker for the public treasury. At the end of the month, the receipts from these sources promise to be near the fifty million mark, about two-thirds of it resulting from the stamp tax and the remainder from the sales excise.

Up to July 20, the receipts under this heading were $22,000,000, including the sales tax and the modified stamp tax as in force in the last few years. The new scale of stamp levies came into force on August 1, and up to the 20th inst. the revenue from this and the sale tax together was $33,000,000, an increase of eleven millions. The returns are regarded as propitious in that this is not the heaviest month for commercial transactions.

THE EMPRESS THEATRE CURRENT ATTRACTIONS

JACK HOLT IS PEARLER IN HIS LATEST PICTURE

Virile Paramount Star Has An Excellent Role in "The Man Unconquerable"

Jack Holt, virile Paramount star, has been seen in many unique roles during his screen career, but none has equalled in general interest his impersonation of Robert Kendall, a pearl fisher in the South Pacific Islands, in his latest Paramount picture, "The Man Unconquerable," which, according to Manager Cutler of the Empress is one of the strongest photoplays he has booked thus far this season.

The scenes of the new picture, founded on a story by Hamilton Smith, are laid in the pearling grounds of the South Sea Islands, where authorities conspire with thieves and the only law is the law of might. This condition provides ample opportunities for a story chock full of tense situations, and two-fisted, red-blooded action.

There is a fighting Swede character, played by Clarence Burton who engages in several pugilistic encounters with Mr. Holt, the star. Rita Durand, a French girl played by Sylvia Breamer, whose father owns a pearl island concession, supplies the love interest.

A magnificent pearl which is stolen, causing the murder of its owner, and which is later recovered, figures in the story. There are many colorful scenes along the coast and in the interior of the island, striking scenes aboard pearling schooners; in the native quarters, and the like. Edwin Stevens, Ann Schaefer, Jean De Briac, Willard Louis and others are in the cast. The picture, which comes to the Empress Theatre Monday and Tuesday was made under the direction of Joseph Henabery.

ADVENTURES OF TWO CROOKS— "GET-RICH-QUICK WALLINGFORD"

The adventures of that inimitable pair—J. Rufus Wallingford and "Blackie" Daw, as slick a pair of crooks as ever beat a board bill, will be disclosed in "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," a Paramount-Cosmopolitan production, to be shown at the Empress Theatre Wednesday and Thursday. The picture is an adaptation of the famous stage success of the same name by George M. Cohan and is said to be a succession of hearty laughs from start to finish.

"Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" shows the good fortune that befell Wallingford and Daw in the little town of Battlesburg into which they had adventured to "clean up" the rich citizens. On their arrival in Battlesburg the two decide it will be easy picking. Their persuasive powers win almost instant success and the wealthy men of the town freely invest in their wild-cat schemes.

Wallingford and Daw prepare to depart with their loot, but they find themselves too much interested in two of the town's girls. They remain and the outcome of their scheming forms a surprising and highly entertaining comedy.

The role of Wallingford is assumed by Sam Hardy with consummate ability. Norman Kerry makes a smooth, smiling and suave partner for the chief crook, and Doris Kenyon is the pretty secretary who helps to win Wallingford over to honesty. The picture was directed by Frank Borzage, creator of "Humoresque."

MIGHT, NOT LAW, IS RULE IN SOUTH SEA ISLES

Conditions Shown in Jack Holt's Picture, "The Man Unconquerable"

Those who occasionally register complaints against inadequate police protection, should spend a few months in some of the remote islands of the South Pacific, such as are pictured in "The Man Unconquerable," a new Paramount picture starring Jack Holt, which will be shown at the Empress Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

The police force of the island in question is limited to three men of assorted uniforms and arms, who would rather do anything than face danger. Many parts of the world are no better policed and the comparative freedom from fear of punishment makes these gentry bold and aggressive.

Jack Holt, in the role of Robert

Kendall, shows how a man who believes that the same conditions of comparative honesty and freedom from danger obtain on the island as elsewhere, and finds himself mistaken, runs into a situation where he has to take the law into his own hands. When out in one of his boats, he provides himself with a machine gun and in one encounter with pearl pirates, sinks their schooner when they try to drive him away from his own pearl concession.

This and other exterior scenes were made at picturesque Balboa Beach, one of the beauty spots of the Southern California coast line.

MONEY TALKS IN FINE BIG WALLINGFORD PHOTOPLAY

Cash Comes in Shoals to Crooks in Strong Picture, "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford"

That money talks we all know, but that it comes in bunches when J. Rufus Wallingford begins to talk about it, is demonstrated in the Cosmopolitan production for Paramount of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," a screen version of the popular play by George M. Cohan which comes to the Empress Theatre next Wednesday.

How J. Rufus Wallingford and his associate in buncombe, "Blackie" Daw, make a fortune for themselves and the residents of the one-horse town of Battlesburg, is an enthralling story which is well adapted for the screen. The details of their scheme present enough complications to make the picture interesting from first to last, and it is filled with amusing surprises for the audience and the two adventurers.

The featured players are Sam Hardy, Norman Kerry, Doris Kenyon, and Diana Allen. The production is massive and of a high order of excellence.

NEW WESTERN STAR HAS A VARIED CAREER

Hoot Gibson, with his infectious smile; his easy, good natured manner and his cowboy costume is a real westerner, having been born in Tekamah, Nebraska, and having spent a number of years on a ranch in Arizona.

At Pendleton, Ore., at a rodeo in which famous cowboys from all over the United States engaged in a series of "stunts," Hoot Gibson was awarded the gold belt as the champion all around cowboy of the world. He became interested a few years ago in auto racing and was a winning driver in the A. A. A. coast contest. "Naturally, I have no ambitions to do society dramas," he says, "but am quite content to continue my career as a western type. I think the western drama is just beginning to be extremely popular in all sections of the country, and combining as it does the possibilities of 'punchy' story values with beautiful scenery, it will undoubtedly grow in favor."

Gibson's first five reel starring vehicle is "Action," adapted from "The Mascotte of the Three Star" a magazine story by J. Allan Dunn and which will be shown at the Empress Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

THEME OF HIGHLY AMUSING COMEDY

How two sharp crooks became rich and honest in spite of themselves is the theme of a highly amusing screen comedy, "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," a Cosmopolitan production for Paramount which is to be seen at the Empress Theatre beginning Wednesday next. It is a diverting screen version of George M. Cohan's world-famous play of the same name, and Sam Hardy, Norman Kerry and Doris Kenyon have the leading roles.

MONKEY IN FLIGHT IS HALTED BY A BANANA

Animal Gives Director Race During Filming of "The Man Unconquerable"

Monkey business is banned in motion picture studios—where time is precious and delays are fatal.

There was a lot of it, however, on the Paramount set on day, when scenes were being filmed for "The Man Unconquerable," Jack Holt's latest Paramount picture, which will be shown at the Empress Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

The excitement was occasioned by attempts on the part of Joseph Henabery, director, property men, electricians and members of the cast, to recapture a small monkey—a part of the atmosphere of one of the South Pacific Island settings, and without which the scenes couldn't go on.

The monkey, evidently reminded of his old home by tropical background for the setting, became unmanageable. Chattering and shrieking, it clambered about over the structural steel beams under the glass top of the big enclosed stage, to the extreme annoyance of his pursuers. Finally, a banana tempted it back to earth.

This was probably the animal's first moment of freedom since it was captured in its native habitat. "The Man Unconquerable" is one of the most thrilling pictures of the current season. Sylvia Breamer is leading woman.

LAUGHS IN "GET-RICH-QUICK WALLINGFORD"

A continuous succession of laughs is promised all those who go to see "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," a Paramount picture to be shown at the Empress Theatre beginning Wednesday next. It was directed by Frank Borzage who directed "Humoresque," and Sam Hardy.

SPLENDID COMEDY COMING

"Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," a splendid screen adaptation of the famous stage success by George M. Cohan will be seen at the Empress Theatre beginning Wednesday next. It is a Cosmopolitan production and is released by Paramount. Sam Hardy plays the part of Wallingford, Norman Kerry is "Blackie" Daw and Doris Kenyon has the role of Fannie Jasper, Wallingford's sweetheart. There's a laugh in every scene.

WHERE DARWIN'S THEORY STANDS AMONG SCIENTISTS

For most men the truth or untruth of Darwin's theory of man's origin only comes within the range of their speculative thoughts, but for all who are investigating the problems of living matter Darwinism enters into their daily work. They depend on it, trust it as implicitly as a navigator does his Admiralty charts. This is particularly the case with professional students of the human body who, as is the case with the writer, have to discover and to impart knowledge to generations of medical students. The reader will understand this aspect of Darwinism if I give a few illustrative instances, writes Sir Arthur Keith in the Nineteenth Century. Every one is familiar with the fact that children are occasionally born with the condition of "hare-lip"; in the complete form a cleft proceeds downward from each nostril, dividing the upper lip into three parts. The surgeon can mend the deformity by operation, but the aim of the anatomist is to discover why such a malformation should occur and, if possible, propose means to prevent its occurrence. For help he turns to embryology and finds that toward the end of the second month of development the upper lip is formed by the union or fusion of three structural elements. If union fails the condition known as "hare-lip" results. He has then to answer the question, why should the human lip be originally cleft in three parts.

From the Fish Stage

A suggestion is given as to the direction in which a search should be made by the simultaneous changes taking place in the neck of the embryo; gill furrows are then disappearing. A search among living fishes shows that in one type, which has retained many old and primitive characters, the upper lip, or what represents an upper lip, is divided into three parts by a cleft descending to the mouth from each nasal opening. "Harelip" represents the persistence of an evolutionary change which occurred long ago at a very distant stage of man's history. At the present time investigators are entering the second part of this problem and are seeking an answer to the question, Why should this stage occasionally persist? Another puzzling occurrence was solved in a similar manner. Some children are born with congenital malformation of the heart, by far the commonest form being the interpolation of a small additional chamber on the right side of the heart. A study of the development of this organ in the human embryo has revealed the presence of an extra chamber, which in normal circumstances becomes gradually merged into and absorbed by the right ventricle. The extra chamber, which makes a transient appearance in the human heart, persists as an active structure in the hearts of sharks and rays. How are we to explain the occurrence of this fourth chamber in the heart of the human embryo and its occasional retention in the child unless we accept the validity of the Darwinian theory?

Darwin a Rock

We may take another instance from a discovery recently made by Professor Dendy, of Knight's College, London. He found that certain remarkable fibers which pass along the spinal cord of fishes arose in connection with a peculiar plaque of cells situated in a passage of the brain. He naturally wished to know what had become of this plaque and its fibers during the evolution of higher vertebrates. He was able to demonstrate that even in the brain of a man a rudiment of the plaque is still preserved, although no one had noted its presence before. Darwin's theory is an engine of discovery; it guides men to the observation of new facts. For the brain surgeon Darwin's teaching is not a theory but a basis of practice. He has found by experience that knowledge gained from a study of the brain of anthropoid apes can be directly applied when operating on the brain of a child or of a man. Physiologists have found that the "functional areas" which exist in the brain of anthropoid apes are represented—and are often elicited by disease or as the result of accidental injury—on corresponding convolutions of the human brain. The correspondence becomes less as we descend the ape scale. Again, when a peculiarly human disease has to be investigated it is found that of all living animals only the anthropoid apes show a high degree of susceptibility to human disease.

His Case Proved

When the chimpanzee is kept in confinement it becomes the subject of that peculiarly human affliction appendicitis. Nearly twenty years ago Professor Nuttall, of Cambridge, showed that the blood of anthropoid apes is most akin to human blood in its reactions. Whatever may be the view of Darwin's theory in popular imagination, there can be no doubt of the strength with which it has become established in the minds of men who are adding yearly to our knowledge of the structure and function of the human body. His contention that man cannot be regarded as having arisen as an independent creation may assuredly be taken as fully proved. But when we are asked to explain the exact nature of the evolutionary machinery which has shaped human beings out of apelike forms we have still to admit—an admission which Darwin insisted on in all his writings—that we have much to discover.

It is true that not one has succeeded in producing a new species—one which has been proved to be incapable of breeding with the parent species—but he would be a bold prophet who declared that this was Nature's secret and man would never find it out. One discovery of recent years, the discovery that the development and growth of all parts of the body are regulated and co-ordinated by a "hormone" mechanism, is likely to throw a new light on the manner in which new and useful characters come into existence. Hormones are substances thrown into the circulating blood by the ductless glands of the body. In our hospitals medical men are now investigating the remarkable transformation of body and mind which follow disorders of the ductless glands. A fuller knowledge of the action of hormones cannot fail to throw a new light on the machinery of evolution.

GOVERNMENT FORTNIGHTLY CROP REP'RT

Harvesting of Alberta's crop is proceeding for the most part, under ideal weather conditions, although rain has interfered to a certain extent in some districts. Practically all of the rye has been cut and from 50 to 75 per cent. of the wheat. Harvesting of this crop will be completed by September 15. A great deal of the oats is being cut for feed. Cutting of the second crop of alfalfa in the southern part of the province is practically completed and the yield has been fairly good.

Since the last report was issued by the department, heavy showers of rain have occurred in several districts, particularly in the central and northern areas. These rains threatened for a time to delay the ripening of the later grain to a point where damage from frost was likely. For the most part, however, the weather has been clear and warm, and the damage from frost, it is anticipated, will be very small.

No further estimates of yields will be made until some of the actual threshing returns have been received by the department. The indications are that the yields will average up somewhat better than was anticipated earlier in the season. In the central and northern districts particularly, late rains have improved the grain to such an extent that estimates of yields are now more optimistic. The feed situation has also been considerably improved.

Flax acreage reported in the province this year is small. The acreage of oats threshed will be reduced through the fact that much of this crop has been cut for feed.

Damage from hail has been slight over the province as a whole, this season. The most serious storm was that which occurred a week ago, in the territory from Wetaskiwin eastward toward Wainwright. Several farms in this territory on a strip three miles wide suffered losses estimated at from 50 to 75 per cent. of the crop.

Pearce News

The whole community of Pearce was in sorrow when, on Friday, August 18, the sad news was spread around of the passing away of everybody's little friend, Sam Zoeteman, many not even knowing that the young lad had already been seriously ill for two or three days.

On Sunday, the 20th, the funeral took place from the home at Pearce, where, besides the mourners, numerous friends and acquaintances had gathered from far and near, among whom were noticed friends from Nobleford as well as Barons, Orton and Macleod, to show their respects, and many were the signs of real and deep-felt sympathy as also many floral tributes.

The funeral service was conducted by Mr. H. Fiske, a student of Hope College at Holland, Mich., who had for some time been conducting regular church services at the Country Church near Monarch, after which Mayor Fawcett, with a few well expressed words, pictured what loss not only the bereaved family but the whole community as well was sustaining by the death of so bright and cheerful a lad, who always had a smile for everyone, ready and quick to help whenever he was needed—in a word, one who promised in every way to become a man such as are needed to build up our country.

Following the short divine service at the graveyard, where the body was laid to rest next to his father's, Mr.
Fawcett again thanked, in behalf of the mother and family, for the many tokens of friendship and sympathy.

A man who had just opened a store in a strange town was interrogating one of his early customers on the purchasing power of the citizens. "Now, there's Deacon Brown," he said. "He has the reputation of being wealthy.
Would he be likely to spend much money in here?" "Wa-al," drawled the native, reflectively, "I wouldn't exactly say that he'd go to hell for a nickel, but he'd fish around fer one till he fell in."—Exchange.

"John, dear, for years the humorists have joked about the bride's first apple pie." "Yes, dear?" "So my first pie will be a lemon." And it was.

Greece instead of seeking to facilitate the movements of the League of Nations peace car evidently wants the

A golden tray placed in the middle,

The bluebells chime for breakfast,—
I must go.

A TIME LIMIT FOR JOKES

Jokes concerning prohibition are to be banned from the Keith vaudeville circuit in Ontario, not because they offend the patrons of the houses but because they have been in service now for three years and have lost their pristine glow. It is a daring innovation that Mr. Keith has made, for he seems to intimate that in future vaudeville must recognize an age limit for jokes, and that after a certain number of years the veterans will be turned loose. If the theory were suddenly put into practice there would be an appreciable interval in which the vaudeville stage would be void of jokes of any kind. A first class new joke does not crop up, we suppose, on an average of more than once a season in vaudeville. Most of those which appear to be new are merely old friends in a new garb. All the prohibition jokes are founded on the desire of millions of Americans to get liquor, the efforts of the law enforcement officers to frustrate them, and the great profits that bootleggers make by producing a spurious beverage. From this foundation the hundreds of thousands of prohibition jokes have been reared. If there are to be more prohibition jokes in the future, which we cannot doubt, despite the Keith ban, they will continue to be founded upon these basic ideas unless there is a great change in public sentiment toward the drink habit or in the laws which seek to control it. A good joke must have a basis of truth; it must have the coloring of actual experience, and we presume that as long as present conditions exist with regard to prohibition, prohibition jokes will continue to be produced.

Various attempts have been made in the past to guide the current of popular humor, and we can recall none which was not a failure. Various solemn Irish bodies protested in vain against the stage caricatures of the Irishman as a comic blunderer with red whiskers, a clean shaven upper lip, and a clay pipe smoked upside down. This caricature survives long after the original of the joke disappeared, and, of course, if there was once a sting in it, this vanished as soon as the stage Irishman became merely a figment to the performer's imagination or a stage property. For a race famed for humor the Irish have been particularly sensitive to ridicule. There was a time when a gloomy delegation of them waited upon the municipal authorities of New York to denounce in the most dignified language a practice alleged to be rife, namely, that of naming monkeys in the Zoo after Irishmen. The Jews, too, have strenuously objected to the portrayal of ridiculous Hebrews on the stage, notwithstanding the fact that so many of the comedians were Jews and that the theatres in which they gave their performances were almost wholly in the control of other Jews. But the Jew type lingers and has become a tradition on the American stage. Time touches gently many of the jokes on the vaudeville stage. The mother-in-law joke, probably one of the oldest in the world, survives. So does one of the few jokes that no doubt preceded it, namely, the sublime infatuation of lovers, and the legion of jokes concerning precocious children and doting parents. These jokes persist because the original conditions from which they sprang persist also, and this is likely to be true also of jokes concerning prohibition.

GOOD INTEREST AND ABSOLUTE SECURITY
A liberal rate of interest with absolute security is the attractive offer made by the Minister of Finance to holders of the Canadian Government war loan bonds maturing December 1, 1922. The offer is not made to investors generally, but only to the holders of the bonds soon to mature. The bonds to be retired, bearing interest at five and one-half per cent, will be exchanged for new bonds bearing the same rate of interest. See the advertisement of the Minister of Finance.

What Co-operation Has Done For U. S. Farmers

By Aaron Sapiro, World Famous Organizer.

The fourth great step in co-operative marketing is to bring your products under centralized control. In Ontario they raise $100,000,000 of dairy products, they produce fifteen to twenty million pounds of cheese and quite an amount of butter. Their cheese is produced in a lot of little factories each one of which sticks up its nose to the next one, and there you have cheese offered on the market by all kinds of small units each competing against the other. Of course you cannot control the flow of cheese in that regard, because each locality has its own manager. I understand that thirty of them have the one salesman, but generally it is a case of one against the other. There is nobody to control the flow of that product to the market, no one to determine what market it should go to, and no one even thinking that there is an ultimate market. They think that the only market is the local cheese board, or the cheese exporter in Montreal, when the markets are really in England and all over the world. The only way you will get real success in cheese marketing is by studying the ultimate markets and controlling the flow so that your cheese will only go to the cheese markets of the world at times when those markets can absorb it. In short, you will apply this great principle to everything else you produce.

Selling Cheese

As you people sell cheese now and as we used to sell it in California, we used to let the price be determined by the supply at the point of production, the worst blunder ever made, because the price ought to be determined by the supply at the point of consumption. As long as the growers stand for that system, as they are doing here now, they and not the public get the worst of it, or, more correctly, they as well as the public are getting the worst of it and only the speculators are getting benefit from that system.

Let me illustrate that with cheese. In April, May and early in June when the cows are giving the most milk you have the most cheese made. In 1921 the price of cheese collapsed within seven days from 21 cents to 14 cents, and then kept around 14 cents until the rush of cheese was practically over. You had an enormous quantity of cheese at that time, and the factories threw it all on the cheese market. The cheese was not eaten in these months. It was stored in Montreal, or shipped to England and stored there. That cheese was eaten in August and September and October, even in November; it was eaten in months when the cows produced less milk and the cheese factories produced less cheese. Now the public in England paid a high price for their cheese. They paid on the basis of the high price for cheese in September and October at the time they ate it. It had left the grower's hands at a price fixed on the basis of supply at point of production and whenever that happens the grower loses. Suppose the grower had moved on to the market in April, May or June and sold about one-fourth of that cheese supply, that the growers had an association so that they could store the balance of the cheese until August or September, that on the supplies they put in storage they borrowed money, for few of them have surplus funds in the bank. I suppose they do borrow this money and carry over this cheese until the factories are producing a smaller quantity and what happens? Instead of selling three-fourths of the crop at a low price they would have sold the whole crop at a fair to high price, so that they would have made a profit and the consumers in England would not have paid one more cent for that cheese in the long run. It would have made a difference to two or three hundred men, none of whom are assisting in the development of Canada or England, and it would have made a difference on the favorable side to a few thousands of growers and a great many consumers, all of whom are contributing to the prosperity of both Canada and England.

A Summary of Wise Salesmanship
Do not forget these principles. The merchandizing of agricultural products, to summarize, means the following:

First—Inspection and grading to improve quality.
Second—Extending the marketing period, first as to time and next by extending the markets as to place and location; next by controlling the movement of the crop and controlling that by considering supply at the point of consumption instead of at the point of production.

1/2 cup butter
1 egg
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons Dr. Price's Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
1/2 lb. dates

Cream butter, add beaten egg, then flour, baking powder and salt which have been sifted together, and milk. At the last stir in dates which have been pitted and cut into small pieces. Bake about 25 minutes in greased gem pans in hot oven. If a sweet muffin is desired, add 1/4 cup sugar to dry ingredients.

COFFEE CAKE

2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons Dr. Price's Baking Powder
2 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup milk

Mix and sift dry ingredients; add melted shortening and enough milk to make very stiff batter. Spread 1/2 inch thick in greased pan; add top mixture. Bake about 30 minutes in moderate oven.

TOP MIXTURE

2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons shortening

Mix dry ingredients; rub in shortening and spread thickly over top of dough before baking.

Red Cross Notes

The Red Cross Society (Alberta Provincial Branch) has arranged to hold a Campaign for Finance and Membership during the week commencing Nov. 5th and terminating on Armistice Day, the 11th. There could be no more fitting time than this for celebrating with thanks offerings the great occasion when the World's Peace was proclaimed. Gratitude to the countless heroes who by their sacrifice made this possible cannot be honored in any finer way than by assisting the society that has ever stood by the sick in war and now in peace. Never have there been more calls on the Red Cross than at the present time, but owing to lack of funds the Society finds itself unable to respond. It is a popular error that after the war the Red Cross ceased to function, but no greater mistake could be made. Let us forget—let us look at the soldier settler and his family in the remote parts of the province far from medical aid, his wife and children have found that the Red Cross were ready to stand by in time of trouble and lend a helping hand. At six different points on the prairie you can see the Red Cross flag flying over the tiny hospitals and health centres where human life is being saved from suffering, nay death itself. The record of surgery done at these outlying points proves that many a time life has been saved because of immediate assistance. But it is in its pre-natal and maternity care that perhaps the most valuable assistance has been rendered to the war-brides who under the strain of new conditions were undergoing great hardships. The Red Cross Nurse at her outpost Health Station is a true missionary—many a mile over trackless prairie with zero weather, alone, she has "carried on" in her battle against disease, and to the lonely women in their hour of pain she has proved an angel of mercy. The prairie hospital is responsible too for giving instruction in home-nursing and mothercraft to the growing girls in the settlements, they travel many miles to see the right way to bath and care for the new-born babe. Foreign-born girls marry as a rule before they are out of their teens, and although their parents have been unable to do much for them educationally the girls exhibit a keen desire to learn at the Red Cross Lectures. Lantern slides on health and hygiene are shown and literature of a popular type is distributed, the boys taking lessons in First Aid in Accidents and simple instruction in physiology.

The Junior Red Cross has made it possible for many a cripple to come in to the specialist in the city and get cured. The Sick Children's Hospital in Calgary is always filled with needy cases from all over the province where free treatment is given to those who are unable to get medical care. The relief work of last winter undertaken by the Red Cross provided clothing for thousands of destitute families who but for this timely aid must have suffered great hardships. The peace time activities are such that every lover of mankind must approve and desire to assist in them. The November Campaign will afford everyone an opportunity of participating in the mission of mercy whose sign is the sign of the Cross. Note the dates, November 5th to Armistice Day.

GET READY FOR THE SCHOOL FAIR.

During the month of September and the first week in October, sixteen fairs will be held in the district under the supervision of the School of Agriculture at Claresholm. These fairs are primarily for public school children, especial attention being devoted to the interests of the rural boys and girls. While they are being conducted very similarly to the summer shows, there is the important difference that practically all the attention is directed toward the exhibits made by the boys and girls, and their money is expended in sport other than athletic events.

The Local School Fair Committee is very anxious that this year's Fair to be held on September 6th be one of the best yet, and is doing everything within its power to make it such. But the success or failure must depend very largely on the interest and amount of co-operation evidenced by the boys and girls, the teacher, the parents and the citizens.

The Secretary Treasurer would like every exhibitor to follow the rules and instructions outlined in the School Fair bulletin, to consult the prize list, and to make sure that exhibits are entered properly and at the proper time.

Boys and girls make your exhibits attractive, play the game fairly and squarely, win or lose on your own efforts, a third prize on your own product is much more gratifying than even a special on another's, don't take something for nothing.

THE GARDEN OF PAN

I am dreaming in the sunshine,
On a lovely Summer's day,
And the birds are chirping in the trees.
I am listening to the church bells,
Chiming sweet melodies,
And from flower to flower flit butterflies and bees.

I am dreaming in the sunshine,
Idle thoughts of other days,
And I wander down the golden lane of youth,
Listening to the Pipes of Pan,
And their echo through the trees.
Lo! this path leads to the reeds, where Syrinx ran.

I am deraming 'neath the rushes,
And my boat rocks up and down,
The bullfrog's croaking warns me, better go around,
For my boat glides o'er the lily-bed,
Loosely tangled like a web.
Lo! by those golden cup I see the great god, Pan.

SOME ANECDOTES ABOUT LATE LORD NORTHCLEIFFE

There are always plenty of anecdotes about men like Northcliffe. An overmastering will, such as his, always gets into amusing mistakes. Lord Northcliffe had foibles, eccentricities and notable habits. Those about him had the pleasure or displeasure of a notable association. Some of their stories or opinions are well worth reproduction. "The Chief was one of ourselves," writes Charles E. Hands, who was the star reporter on the Daily Mail almost from its first day and one of its war correspondents in the Boer war. "There was a landlord at Basingstoke who hated motor cars. Lord Northcliffe would go miles out of his way to meet him, and they would chaff one another vehemently. There was a gardener on the Canterbury Road who was a great crony of his. Every man's opinions were of interest and information to him, whether right or wrong, if honestly expressed. Whenever he met a man of sincerity of character in any walk of life he made a friend."

A Rural Enthusiast.

The Mirror says: "He liked nothing better than to wander about in a favorite old coat with his fox terrier, and observe sympathetically the lives of the rustics. His interest in French gardening and sweet peas, which were to receive the backing of his newspapers, arose from a very real understanding of rural England's simple pleasures. In his younger days he was an ardent naturalist, and it was once said of him that he knew nearly as much about British birds as Viscount Grey of Fallodon. He could identify any variety of bird on sight, and always recognized the different notes. He made a special study of wild birds."

Lord Beaverbrook, owner of the Daily Express, writes: "I met him first at a dinner just after I was elected to Parliament. I sensed that he was sizing me up, probably because it was reported I was about to buy the Standard. Shortly afterward he invited me to Thanet. When he asked what my private fortune was I told him, and he said: 'If you go into Fleet Street you'll lose it all.' I am not sure the prophecy may not yet come true."

A Mother's Influence

T. Hannis Swaffer, one of Northcliffe's lieutenants, who had an "on again, off again" career on the "Chief's" newspapers, says that his mother had more influence over him than any other human being. "It was when he was with her that you saw him the boy again, dreaming dreams and planning an even more brilliant future. 'You must come and meet my mother,' he would say, and that was the greatest compliment he ever paid." Mr. Swaffer adds: "He always wore a spotted tie, blue or reddish, with big white spots. He hated spats. He wouldn't let other people wear handkerchiefs sticking out of their breast pockets, although he often did it himself. He hated the name William so much that he made a member of the staff call himself something else. Another man of a foreign name had to call himself Hamilton. He talked like a tyrant, especially at the telephone, and if you answered back and got the better of him he hung up the receiver. Directors and office boys to him were all alike. They were parts of his machine, and he boasted that any office boy could become a director if he liked. Nearly all of the best journalists in England worked for him, and many left after a few weeks, as they would not tolerate his all-mastering will. I left three times, once of my own accord. That was a record."

A Busy Thinker

A Times associate writes: "He was always putting on his thinking cap. Often I have gone to his room early in the morning and found him busy thinking, his eyes upon the ceiling, deep in concentration of thought. It was his habit to think out not only the work proposed for that day, but ahead, days, weeks, months. He used to say, 'If you really want a thing, go for it yourself; if you don't really want it, send some one for it.' Go, not send, was his guiding principle of life."

Lord Riddell writes: "The key to many of his actions was his love of maxims. When discussing a new plan he often paused and remarked, 'That won't do. You must never try to experiment on an experiment.'"

Lord Northcliffe hated slovenliness, but his impetuosity to correct often caused amusing incidents. One morning, rushing into the office, he saw a red-headed boy slouching over a desk doing nothing. Northcliffe stopped and said: "Boy, how much do you get a week?" The boy answered, "A pound, sir." Northcliffe, handing him a pound note, said, "Here, get out and don't come back." The boy pocketed it grinning and said, "Yes, sir, I'm waiting to get a message, but you can call another boy."

Die in His Bed

A colleague relates the following: "While he was staying at his place at Broadstairs in war time a German destroyer began shelling the house at midnight. The building was struck. A secretary rushed in crying, 'Chief, the Germans are shelling us!' But Lord Northcliffe said, 'We'll die in our beds; you go and die in yours.' And he turned over and went to sleep."

One day during the Charlie Chaplin boom Lord Northcliffe came into conference with a cable addressed to him, reading: "I hereby authorize you to print anything in your papers about me that you like. Charlie Chaplin."

Lord Northcliffe said, "There you are! It's a cable to me from the other greatest man in the world."

IN THE SHADOW

Sing low, little bird, sing low—
In the eventide or the dawn of day—
On the far-off hill where dark pines grow—
On the verdant isles of the far away—
Where the night winds fall 'neath silvery shine,
Thou in thy shadow and I in mine.
That they who are fair must die,
Those whom we love most and love best,
That ever the brave heart should cry
When the sun sinks low in the west!
Sing low, sweet bird, when the skies
are lead,
When I hear no more the voice of my dead.
Sing low, when you reach the far-off
hill,
Sing low to winds thy fluttering
note,
Sing soft thy song, till my spirit fill
With the hope in thy quivering throat.
Above are the stars with silvery shine
That trembles and dies on the path that is mine.

WHAT CO-OPERATION HAS DONE
FOR U. S. FARMERS

for those same cabbages, a price, it was felt, that would not even pay the freight to take those cabbages to New York where those growers had organized and, co-ordinating their efforts with those of the growers of California, could have got together, they would not have needed to sell to the buyers down in the Rio district or in California, but would have managed to get them to the market in New York; and if they could have delivered those cabbages in New York they could have sold them for seven cents each, paid the freight, and paid the cost of production and could have made more than $10 a ton.

As it is in practice, the whole crop of cabbages rotted in the Rio Grande, and in the fields of California which are not organized, because most of these cabbage farms are controlled by Japs—efficient farmers, only we wish they would farm somewhere else.

With perishable products the consumer suffers, and even the grain grower, by having non-co-operative marketing. If you will only study what happens in this country and how much of the crop stays in the growers' hands you will realize that the consumer is the great sufferer for the lack of organization among the growers; and with non-perishable products I wonder if you think it makes so much difference to the consumer if the grower gets his share? Wheat was dumped by your Canadian farmers when wheat was at one dollar a bushel, yet at that time every student of grain knew that according to the statistics grain had to come up. Your people had to dump their wheat, they could not hold it. They were not organized to put it into elevators. They were not accustomed to doing that sort of thing because they were not organized for co-operative marketing. But in Washington, as in Idaho and Montana, there is a little wheat growers' association. They sold a little wheat and then they decided that the market was not normal, so they put the wheat they had into elevators and warehouses, and they finally sold it at a price ranging from $1.40 to $1.60 a bushel in average return for the growers in the state of Washington.

Who Gets Most of Wheat Profits?

On the Marquis wheat their average will be more than $1.40 a bushel, where the average return on Marquis wheat in Canadian districts—wheat which you Canadians originated for us, wheat just as good if not better than theirs, and grown with just as much skill—average less than $1.10 a bushel. Your farmers lost 30 cents a bushel on more than 250,000,000 bushels of wheat. Your farmers lost it, but do you think you as consumers are paying less for the bread you eat on that account. Do you think you get the benefit of it? That wheat was stored, and one firm in Chicago is today storing more than 40,000,000 bushels. That firm is making a clean-up this year. You are not making that benefit. That firm knew something about statistics and was willing to take a chance on it. They have that wheat in storehouses today, and they are going to sell it at perfectly good prices. Some think wheat is going to $1.90 or $2 a bushel, and they are holding the wheat, and you and I are going to pay for it and pay the price they choose to sell it for through the miller. The public does not get any benefit on that particular kind of transactions, and the growers lose an enormous amount of money. And because the grower loses that amount of money that means a lessened purchasing power by the grower. Every merchant in the community loses that business. That merchant buys from the wholesaler in Toronto, and the wholesaler also loses from that sort of proposition. Wherever you have speculation instead of merchandizing the public loses and the grower loses, and somewhere in between we manufacture a few more millionaires with a limited purchasing power except for pearl necklaces and the sort of things you read about.

The great aim of co-operative marketing is not to stick the consumer. The great aim is to merchandise that product so that the consumer's dollar can stay where it formerly did but so that the grower can get his share out of that consumer's dollar. In California, in dried fruits, we used to get eight cents out of the consumer's dollar, but now the California co-operatives get 48 cents of the consumer's dollar without increasing the dollar. In dairy products we have gone up a little more than 14 per cent, in the share of the grower out of the consumer's dollar. Our aim isn't to stick anybody. It is to introduce a system which prevents waste, to introduce a system which prevents speculation and to introduce a system which means that the man who produces farm products shall have a chance to merchandise that product and make a real living, a civilized living out of that product, so that from the standpoint of the grower, the standpoint of the community and the standpoint of the consuming public this co-operative marketing movement has more than justified itself.

Co-operation Develops Better
Citizenship

And then there is another phase that we have to think about. Do you think you are producing good citizens out of men who feel that everything they do is manipulated, and that they are losing out of it? Do you think you are producing good citizens when you make a man feel there is no fair industrial basis for their living? From the standpoint of citizenship this co-operative movement has been the most valuable thing we have ever had in California. It has united classes. It has not separated the classes in California with bitterness. It has united them in the state of California. It has built up the finest type of citizenship which the state has ever known. And it has gone further than that. It has entered into the life of every man who participates in it. He comes to realize that the other man is a man just like himself, that he is doing something with the other man. They have recognized that. You can see it in their faces. That is why we have these wonderful managers in the co-operatives constantly being offered doubled salaries if they would leave the co-operatives. They never think of leaving the co-operatives because the sense of service has got into their blood. They realize they are doing a big constructive thing. There is a different spirit in our farmers since co-operative marketing has become more or less universal. I have seen that happen. I have seen men who couldn't be gotten together for any other purpose, but once they have got together for co-operative marketing they will get together for clubs or to build churches or schools or any other purpose for which men can properly and wisely get together. There is a spirit that grows from co-operation that you will never find anywhere else.

Encourage Co-operative Selling Because It Is the Right Thing

I want your interest in co-operative marketing, not because it is a matter of dollars and cents in the pockets of the grower or the pockets of the merchants or the community at large. I do not want your interest in co-operative marketing on that account. I want your interest because in the first place it is the right thing, and because it is the one great permanent movement by which a new and fuller spirit of citizenship has been created on the farms of the United States, on the farms of Denmark, and the farms of every country in the world in which the growers have learned to work together intelligently on their primary industrial problem.

DOCTORS STILL DIFFER
CONCERNING ALCOHOL

Since the human race has been imbibing alcohol in various forms for many thousands of years, it is rather astonishing to learn on the authority of Prof. Mellanby, of Sheffield, one of the foremost medical scientists in Great Britain, that our knowledge of its effects is meagre. One had assumed that in the discussions on prohibition every fact concerning alcohol had been brought to light and weighed, but we may have fallen into this error because, as Prof. Mellanby says, it is a subject which appears to the average man to require no special knowledge upon which to base strong opinions. Prof. Mellanby made these and other interesting remarks at a session of the British Medical Association in Glasgow, and the discussion that followed showed that doctors of equal eminence continue to differ concerning the effects of alcohol upon the human system. None who spoke, as reported in the Manchester Guardian, with the exception of a medical man who was also a clergyman, and whose views were referred to rather impolitely as mere "pious opinions," declared himself a prohibitionist. Even the Americans who addressed the gathering were agnostics on the subject of alcohol, waiting further evidence before making a final decision.

Both Food and Drug

One speaker in favor of rationing the supply of alcohol was Dr. Hindede, of Copenhagen, who expressed the view that if France would adopt the Danish system in this respect it would save 300,000 lives annually and thus solve the population problem. He advised the British people to stop the consumption of liquor for two years, and at the end of that time, decide whether they would continue to have prohibition or return to the present condition. Sir James Barr, of Liverpool, said that a great deal of the present social unrest was caused by the high price and difficulty of obtaining beer. He was certain that most of the cutthroats in Ireland and Russia were teetotalers—opinions that one can hardly describe as medical. Prof. Cushty agreed with Prof. Mellanby, that alcohol must be considered both as a food and as a drug, but said that its food value was generally overestimated. The actual amount of nourishment contained in a pint of beer was roughly that contained in a cup of tea or coffee containing milk and sugar, and nobody regarded a cup of tea as nourishment.

Not Factor in Insanity

Two or three speakers said that alcohol was a negligible factor in the reproduction of insanity. War statistics concerning male lunatics were trustworthy, said Dr. Sutherland, but his statistics showed that among women, while there was a decrease in convictions for drunkenness, there was a slight increase in admissions to asylums. On the other hand, alcohol was undoubtedly responsible for grave anti-social conduct, especially for suicides and crimes of violence and lust. Sir Frederick Mott, Dr. Sullivan and Dr. Bevan Lewis agreed that alcohol as an efficient cause of insanity is not so great as the published reports of the Lunacy Commissioners indicate. It was the sedative power, and not any stimulating effect, that made the rumination of value in the emergencies of military service, and Sir Frederick found that of 147 cases of shell-shock or other war neuroses admitted in 1917 to the London Hospital, 60 per cent. were total abstainers. In view of the fact that the vast majority of the army were not teetotalers, these figures would indicate that the rum ration was a preventive or ameliorator of shell-shock.

Question of Efficiency

Prof. Collis, of the Welsh National School of Medicine, held that alcohol interfered with the reflexes and impaired the co-ordination of movement. Industrial accidents were commoner where drinking was prevalent. There were more accidents after pay day and holidays. He conceded that alcohol had a charm for removing the irritating defects of industrial fatigue, but it was purchased at a great cost of efficiency. On the other hand, Prof. Rivers was quoted as having shown that alcohol in certain quantities increased efficiency. It is admitted that efficiency is of different kinds. In regard to setting type and target-shooting, a moderate indulgence was likely to impair efficiency. On the other hand, as Prof. Mellanby said, the release of the emotional centres from control might make ordinary people talk in a clever and interesting way, and thus give the compositor something better worth setting up. The combination of sober type-setter and exhilarated after-dinner speaker would make for a more interesting newspaper than the combination of sober speaker and inebriated compositor.

Advantages of Avoidance

Prof. Stockard, of Cornell, as the result of many experiments on guinea pigs, was of the opinion that alcohol had never caused any abnormal development in the human embryo. His experiments did not prove that it could not do so, but his view was that in order to induce abnormal effects, the dose to be taken would have to be greater than ever existed in the human body. Prof. Mellanby said that alcoholic indulgence has less effect upon fat men than upon lean men, because it took longer for the large, fleshy man to attain the necessary alcoholic concentration of the blood which produces the evidences of intoxication. Food has a marked influence on the consumption of alcohol, and milk fat especially tends to prevent intoxication if taken with liquor. Similarly, the interval between drinks is of great importance, because if sufficient time is given for the voidation of one does before another is taken drunkenness will not result. This seems to be a scientific way of remarking that a man who drinks a bottle of whiskey in an afternoon is likely to show the effects of it more than the man who spreads his bottle over a year.

"It's nonsense to come to the country to escape the heat. It's just as hot here as it is in the city." "I know it, but there aren't so many people to talk to you about it."

As two and a half-year-old Leslie De Wolfe, of Elgin, Ont., lay sleeping in the harvest field a binder passed over him, severing his right arm at the elbow. The child died later in the hospital.

IMPOUNDED CATTLE

The following list of cattle are impounded at the Stock Farm, Peigan Agency, Brockton, Alberta:
Seven head of dry Cows, branded Lazy AL on left ribs.
One Red 2-year-old Heifer, short tail, some white, no visible brand.
1 Brockey faced 2-year-old Heifer, Red, no visible brand.
The above cattle have dipping charges as well as pound fees to pay. Dated Saturday, August 12th, 1922.

Victory Bonds

Issued in 1917 and Maturing 1st December, 1922.

CONVERSION PROPOSALS

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE offers to holders of these bonds who desire to continue their investment in Dominion of Canada securities the privilege of exchanging the maturing bonds for new bonds bearing 5½ per cent interest, payable half yearly, of either of the following classes:—

- Five year bonds, dated 1st November, 1922, to mature 1st November, 1927.
- Ten year bonds, dated 1st November, 1922, to mature 1st November, 1932.

While the maturing bonds will carry interest to 1st December, 1922, the new bonds will commence to earn interest from 1st November, 1922, GIVING A BONUS OF A FULL MONTH'S INTEREST TO THOSE AVAILING THEMSELVES OF THE CONVERSION PRIVILEGE.

This offer is made to holders of the maturing bonds and is not open to other investors. The bonds to be issued under this proposal will be substantially of the same character as those which are maturing, except that the exemption from taxation does not apply to the new issue.

Dated at Ottawa, 8th August, 1922.

Holders of the maturing bonds who wish to avail themselves of this conversion privilege should take their bonds AS EARLY AS POSSIBLE, BUT NOT LATER THAN SEPTEMBER 30th, to a Branch of any Chartered Bank in Canada and receive in exchange an official receipt for the bonds surrendered, containing an undertaking to deliver the corresponding bonds of the new issue.

Holders of maturing fully registered bonds, interest payable by cheque from Ottawa, will receive their December 1 interest cheque as usual. Holders of coupon bonds will detach and retain the last unmatured coupon before surrendering the bond itself for conversion purposes.

The surrendered bonds will be forwarded by banks to the Minister of Finance at Ottawa, where they will be exchanged for bonds of the new issue, in fully registered, or coupon registered or coupon bearer form carrying interest payable 1st May and 1st November of each year of the duration of the loan, the first interest payment accruing and payable 1st May, 1923. Bonds of the new issue will be sent to the banks for delivery immediately after the receipt of the surrendered bonds.

The bonds of the maturing issue which are not converted under this proposal will be paid off in cash on the 1st December, 1922.

W. S. FIELDING,
Minister of Finance.

LOCAL & PERSONAL

J. S. Lambert arrived back from a holiday trip on Saturday.

A large number of outfits have passed through Macleod this week on their way to the big ditch at Cardston.

Miss Aveline Macdonald, of Calgary, is the guest of Miss Isobel Maclean.

Miss Margaret McLean has returned from a summer outing spent at Waterton Lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Coffey and family, who were visiting at Waterton Lakes, arrived back in Macleod on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Swinerton and party left for a motor trip through the Rockies on Tuesday.

Mrs. F. Britny and daughter Jessie and Miss I. Woodhouse, of Calgary, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Fraser.

Mrs. Roy McFarquhar, of Calgary, returned to her home after spending a week with her mother, Mrs. W. N. Damon.

E. W. McClung and Mr. and Mrs. J. Summers from Stettler, passed through Macleod, en route home from a motor trip to Los Angeles.

Mr. Raitt did 100 yards in absolutely nothing on Monday—he attributes his speed to the use of Polairine.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Fleming and family are back again in Macleod after spending the summer at Waterton Lakes.

H. C. Winter and J. B. Sutherland, while fishing during the week end, caught three fish. Mr. Clark wasn't along this time, which accounts for the big catch.

Mr. Kope and F. Cutler are expected back from a fishing trip this week—they have special tackle for catching the big ones—and a mighty catch is expected by all their friends.

Mr. Bell, superintendent for Messrs. Smith Bros. and Wilson of Lethbridge, who were putting a new roof on the C.P.R. round house here, left for Lethbridge on Saturday. (McLaren Lumber Co. supplied the lumber).

Mrs. R. T. McNichol is to be congratulated on having turned the rock pile next to the post office into a veritable oasis of flowers and greenery—and the general result is lovely to the sixth degree.

Those of our townspeople who wish to have their names added to the list of subscribers to the Memorial Monument Fund are requested to leave their contributions with the manager of the Union Bank.

Jim Lawlor, general superintendent of construction on the Big Ditch, says every time he washes his Ford it rains. It would pay the farmers around Macleod to keep their eyes on this Ford and see it stays in the district.

Mrs. W. V. Price and Mrs. H. Dowson were visitors to Calgary to be present at the unveiling of the Cross of Sacrifice and also to represent the Next-of-Kin of Macleod. Floral wreaths were placed by them for Macleod Heroes at base of cross.

Sunday, August 27th, was decoration day in Macleod. Members of the I.O.O.F. met at their hall and marched to the cemetery in a body, and deposited on the graves of their late members flowers in abundance, after which a short address was given by E. F. Brown.

M. McKague, of 12 miles south of Macleod on Art Knisley's farm (the latter being his son-in-law) is making a great success of raising strawberries, having about 300 plants which are yielding a heavy crop of lovely berries—Mr. McKague states he has picked about 50 quarts of A1 fruit—and this being the first year he hopes for greater returns next season. The Editor of The Times sampled a quart of these berries and for flavor and size they are certainly phenomenal! Mr. McKague should develop his fad into a commercial proposition as his success should make it easily possible for him to dispose of a great number of the acclimated plants next year.

Mrs. A. Shering, of Frank, was a Macleod visitor last week, returning to Frank on Saturday.

Mrs. C. W. Stevens and children arrived in town this week after spending their holidays in Montana.

W. Whitworth was seen at the new Empire Theatre, Edmonton. Billy is spending his holidays in the north country.

Dr. Fansett took a trip through the Hutterite Brethren Community on Sunday. He reports the south crops good.

Miss Winnie Pharo is leaving for St. Catharines, Ont., on Friday—it is rumored that Miss Pharo is about to change her name—in fact she is going east to get married.

Among the teachers back again for the ensuing term are Miss Matheson, Miss Atkinson, Miss Taber and Miss Roberts. We are all glad to see their smiling faces once more.

Inspector Mellor, Supt. Juncket and Assistant Commissioner Wroughton, of the R.C.M. Police, while on a tour of inspection, spent the week end at Macleod.

Jack McLaren, formerly agent here for the Dominion Express Co., and now located in Cranbrook, is expected in town this week, and no doubt will spend part of his holidays on a fishing trip.

Bull Berries are very plentiful at Scullies Bottom, this place is only three miles from town. How about next Wednesday afternoon for picking—father could have a sleep among the trees and mother pick the berries; it would make a nice outing.

Marion Lorena Tasker died at Victoria, B.C., on August 29th, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Tasker, the deceased lady, was the wife of W. H. Tasker, formerly accountant with the Hudson's Bay Co., at Macleod, and many friends here will sympathize with Mr. Tasker in his bereavement.

Another week of excellent harvesting weather has favored the Macleod district. Light showers of rain, with a lot of sunshine, has ripened the grain, and fifty per cent. of the wheat is now in the stock. Twenty-five per cent. of the oats is cut, while the hay-making continues. Threshers are preparing for a busy season.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stockton, of Macleod and Messrs. Nelson G. Atchison and C. MacIn, of Toronto, motored to the lakes Saturday afternoon, returning Sunday evening via Cardston and Lethbridge. Miss Pauline Stockton returned with them after holidaying for six weeks at the lakes. A very enjoyable time was had by all.

At the Methodist Church Sunday evening Rev. G. D. Armstrong preached a memorial sermon on "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give you a Crown of Life." He spoke of the past years of war and our boys who went out and did not return. "We speak to their memory, also of those who have given their lives in this country for their country."

Little Harriet Watchorn, aged five years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. L. Watchorn, of Macleod, died at Merrickville, Ont., on Saturday, August 26th, after three weeks' illness with tonsillitis. Mr. and Mrs. Watchorn left Merrickville on Monday night, bringing the child's body to Lethbridge, where interment will take place Friday in the cemetery plot in which a little brother had previously been laid to rest.

On Tuesday of this week the writer (who had heard glowing rumors of Mrs. E. Whipple's flower and vegetable garden) paid it a deferred visit. While the full glory of Mrs. Whipple's garden has passed, it is easily apparent that reports had not overestimated it—the flower garden still presenting a beautiful ensemble of variegated coloring from its profusion of lovely flowers—zinnias, gladiolus, sweet peas, hollyhocks, everlasting flowers, pinks, petunias, asters, roses, golden glow, pansies and geraniums—and many that from lack of flower wisdom we cannot classify. The vegetable garden is also excellent in its showing of the whole gamut of vegetable production possible in this district—outstanding features being the ripe tomatoes and well developed fruit on the melon vines.

Alex Hart has been transferred to Stately, where he will take a position as assistant station agent for the C. P. R., having left for that point on Monday last.

On Monday, August 21st, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Fraser returned from New York City, N.Y., where they have been visiting their daughter, Miss E. Fraser.

W. Whitworth is spending a two weeks holiday in Calgary, Banff and Edmonton. Mr. L. Fraser is assisting Miss Ford in the absence of Mr. Whitworth.

R. G. Reed and D. Lowe, of the R. C. M. P., Lethbridge, motored to Macleod on Saturday last in Mr. Reed's "Bug," returning to Lethbridge early Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tweed and daughter Irene, of Vancouver, arrived in Macleod on Thursday of last week. Mr. Tweed is here on business in connection with his ranching interests in the Hills.

STORIES OF FAMOUS PEOPLE

Sir Guy Fleetwood Wilson has lived long in the great world of the celebrated, and his charming "Letters to Somebody" is packed with anecdotes. He is a modest and genial raconteur, but with it all one glimpses a strong personality and a man who knows his own mind. His book is full of gossip, but it is full also of the intimate history of recent time and it has the value of authentic pen-portraits of some of the most famous politicians and soldiers of the last half-century.

Mrs. Norton, the heroine of Meredith's "Diana of the Crossways," once gave him her beauty secret: "Ever since her girlhood she had, after washing her face well, passed over it a sponge dipped in quite fresh milk into which she had squeezed a perfectly fresh lemon. She did this just before she got into bed, and she assured me that she had never applied anything else to her face and neck throughout her life. In her case, at any rate, the result was marvellous."

His familiar glimpses are inimitable. Here is one of an investiture by Queen Victoria at Osborne: "We had a very indifferent luncheon and the investiture began almost immediately afterwards. I was the very last and by that time her Majesty was evidently tired and distinctly cross."

"When I knelt at her feet I could not for the life of me avoid being completely absorbed by the pattern of the footstool. It was covered by a fearful and terrible presentment in worsted work of a King Charles' spaniel, with a blindingly blue ribbon round its neck and the most scarlet tongue ever seen in life or death. I cannot account for it but that spaniel made me forget my 'rill. Instead of putting out my forearm at right angles to the Queen so that she might lay her hand on it for me to kiss, I tried to take her fingers between mine to enable me to kiss the back of her hand. The Queen instantly withdrew her hand and gave mine a little smack not a pat, but a genuine angry little smack. I wonder if anyone else, other than the royal children, ever got smacked by beloved Queen Victoria; God bless her!"

There is an excellent picture of Lord Kitchener during the Boer War.
